

International Journal of Forest Engineering Cover Image Competition

Deadline: May 31st 2023

Prior to submitting your cover image suggestion, please read the full Terms and Conditions

To celebrate the approach of the Journal's 35th year we would like to host a journal cover image competition!

The winner of this competition will receive a £200 book voucher from Taylor and Francis and the chance to have the journal represented by their image for the coming years.

You can view the journal's previous cover images below. The current cover image has been serving the journal since 2001.

Entries should include an image that best represents the journal's Aims, Scope, and content. This image can be a forested landscape or forest engineering machinery/equipment being used within the forest or transporting timber or biomass products to industry. Please note that these images should not include people's faces and should be an image that you own.

To enter this competition please email a png/jpeg image file to Samantha.Dickens@tandf.co.uk with the Subject: International Journal of Forest Engineering Cover Image Competition.

There will be a limit of 2 image submissions per person.

By entering the Competition you agree to the (i) Competition Terms and Conditions, as contains below; and (i) the Informa Privacy Policy \(informa.com\)

The competition will be judged by the Editorial Board who will each rank their top 3 images by preference.
